

Fee Structure

All fees will be discussed with you at the initial telephone consultation or via email.

Initial Telephone Consultation

Upon receiving an initial inquiry, we will contact you for a brief (15 minute) telephone consultation which is free of charge. This will allow us to find out a bit more about the areas of concern and discuss how we can help.

Assessments

Initial assessment – £220

This includes:

- Two 50 minute appointments involving an initial discussion to gather relevant background and developmental history.
- An opportunity for us all to meet to discuss current concerns.
- An assessment of the difficulties
- A collaborative plan for treatment

Sometimes it feels important for parents to have space to discuss their concerns without their child present, for this reason the assessment is divided into two appointments. We will discuss this option during the telephone consultation. On some occasions, one longer 90 minute appointment is all that is needed to gain an understanding of the difficulties and develop a plan for the family to take forward. Alternatively, you can choose to have a follow-up session to discuss the assessment outcome and recommendations more fully.

Assessment Feedback session – £110

A 50 minute session to discuss the assessment outcome, recommendations and any on-going therapeutic support / interventions. This appointment can be with or without the young person present, depending on circumstances. If ongoing appointments are indicated this will be discussed during the assessment feedback appointment.

Initial assessment (including review of previous assessments) – £330

This includes:

- Reading and making sense of previous comprehensive reports/assessments from other professionals prior to your session to inform the assessment process.
- Two 50 minute appointments involving an initial discussion to gather relevant background and developmental history.
- A thorough assessment of the difficulties
- A collaborative plan for treatment/interventions

Assessment Feedback session if requested – £110

On-going Psychological Therapy

50 minute follow up sessions – £110

The number of psychological therapy sessions will vary according to need and will always be agreed with you in advance, and regularly reviewed with you.

Other charges:

If clinically related telephone, email and report/letter-writing is required there will be a charge for this work. This will be discussed with you in advance.

School / Network Consultation

90 minutes appointment and written summary - £300

This 90 minute meeting within school (or a residential service) with professionals, parents/carers, is designed to explore the areas of difficulty for a specific child, develop a shared understanding and agree a plan with recommendations. There will be a written summary of this meeting. If it would be helpful for us to read background reports or other assessments before the consultation, an additional charge will be agreed in advance.

Cognitive Assessments

A cognitive assessment can be helpful when a young person is struggling with learning in school or having difficulties in specific areas. The young person will engage in a series of activities/puzzles/tasks which have been specifically designed to gain a fuller understanding of a young person's strength and weaknesses in a variety of areas (e.g. ability to solve problems, remember information, interpret language, or process information). These cognitive assessment tools are standardised which means that psychologists can make comparisons in skills and abilities between other young people of the same age. This can then be used to guide learning within school or help tailor interventions.

Cognitive Assessment – £875

- An initial appointment to gather relevant background information and developmental history
- An assessment appointment with your child (approximately 2 hours)

- A written report including recommendations
- A 50 minute feedback session to discuss the assessment and recommendations.

The format of these assessments will be designed according to each child's specific needs.

Training Packages

Half day - £550 - £750

Whole day - £950 - £1,250
